Cottages in Grimsby Beach for the coming summer season are already in great demand, according to George Fair, park superintendent. During the past three weeks he has had many applications for cottages and when people are seeking summer homes at this early date, it bespeaks for a good season for this popular resort.

A meeting of the Grimsby Lawn Bowling Club was held on Monday evening in the council chambers when plans for the coming season were discussed and election of officers held as follows: President — M. Mr. George Fair, park superintendent, Fred Jewson, W. A. Coon and Elmer Walters were in attendance at the funeral on Tuesday.

Checking Up On Produce Dealers

Several Convictions Have Been Registered During Past Few Weeks—Packages of All Fruits and Vegetables Must Be Plainly Marked.

While Ontario potato growers are endeavoring to arrange some scheme of collective marketing, federal agricultural inspectors, working under an appointment of the Ontario minister of agriculture, continue their inspection of potatoes transported, packed, advertised or displayed for sale.

Under the "marking" section of this act, "every person who packs, ships, sells, offers for sale or has in possession for sale any fruit or vegetable in a closed package shall mark the package with his initials and full surname and address (or in case of a firm or corporation with the firm or corporate name and address) a proper designation of the grade of the fruit or vegetable as named and defined in the regulations respecting grades."

Under paragraph two of the general regulations "no persons shall transport, pack, advertise, display or offer for sale, sell or have in his possession for sale any produce which has not been graded and inspected and, if in packages, packed and marked in accordance with the provisions of this act and the regulations thereunder, the onus of proof of compliance with such provision being upon the persons charged."

In recent weeks several convictions have been made under this act.

One case in particular prosecuted last week, the trucker was fined heavily for not having his load tagged; for being two tons overweight on his truck and for not having his driver's permit. Government inspectors are determined to make the shippers, truckers and wholesalers live strictly up to the act.

Personal liberty must not encroach on the rights of others; it's a mutual matter since we have to live together.

Over Half Century On The Road

Robert Bamfield Sold His First Order of Goods to Jno. C. Farrell in 1884 — Still Going Strong.

Robert "Bob" Bamfield, the second oldest commercial traveller in Canada in age and the oldest in Canada in point of years of service on the road, was a visitor to Grimsby on Tuesday. "Bob" who has passed the 78th milestone, started on the road 54 years ago, as a traveller for a shoe firm and later took on a harness firm. He sold his first bill of goods to the late Jno. C. Farrell in the spring of 1884, and he sold the Farrell Shoe Store another bill on Tuesday.

When he took on the line of harness goods the first order that he received was from the late Nelson Culp, who conducted a harness shop in Grimsby for a great many years.

It is interesting to hear "Bob" tell of the early days on the road when automobiles were an unheard of thing and trains ran when they pleased. A traveller in those days spent half his life in hotels and the other half driving from one country cross-roads store to another, in livery rigs.

"Bob" has a lot of good yarns to tell about hiring livery rigs from the late James A. Livingston, and of the many arduous trips that he made in North Grimsby, South Grimsby, Caistor, and Gainsborough with the late Alfred "Long" Tetler as his driver. He tells one particularly interesting story about how it took "Long" and him 12 hours to drive from Grimsby to Smithville through the mud.

died. Today, among those given treatment within two days not one in fifty dies. Delay means death in many cases.

When toxoid was discovered, a further reduction in diphtheria deaths occurred, for toxoid prevents the disease being contracted. Toxoid is not a serum. It is administered without causing pain or illness but it takes time to act. Three doses are given at three weeks' intervals. As pointed out, it is important to have all three before summer vacation. With the general adoption of toxoiding, diphtheria incidence fell off splendidly, many cities in Ontario having a record of no cases in years. During the past three years, the number of children immunized has not been maintained with the result that diphtheria is on the increase again and health authorities are alarmed.

PRE-SCHOOL AGE CLINIC—The second clinic for pre-school age children for the administration of toxoid against diphtheria and examination by the local doctors and school nurse, will be held in Grimsby Public School on Tuesday, April 5th, at 10 a.m.

SPORTLAND SPORTLIGHT IF IT'S A BOQUET OR A BRICKBAT THAT'S COMING TO YOU — YOU'LL GET IT

By J. ORLON "BONES" LIVINGSTON, Independent Sportologist

RANDOM RANTS AND RUMORS Cincinnati Reds, National league ball team, consume 18 full grown steers in the form of steaks every spring in training camp. That's nuthin'. Grimsby ball fans consume 118 bum steers every season over the Peach Kings winning a championship. . . . Niagara Falls fans are agitating for the Cataracts executive to lay plans for a Senior "A" team next season. To do so would mean the importation of at least four top-notch stick welders to bolster up their already smart "B" team players. That would be easy for Tommy Boyd if he made up his mind to do it. Hockey was at a low ebb in the Big Roar town when Tommy entered his Cats in the Senior B division but it came back with a bang before the season was ended. Falls should be ripe for an "A" team next winter. . . . Popularity of professional hockey continues to increase in Toronto. Total paid attendance for the Maple Leafs' twenty-four home games of the present season was 282,211, with a sellout assured for every playoff game. That 282,211 total figures out at an average of 11,754 per home game. Here's how the figures compare with the previous two years: 1935-36, 227,708; 1936-37, 262,811; 1937-38, 282,211. . . . George Marr would go into a paroxysm of delight if he could just get one-tenth the number of any of the above figures crammed into his igloo in one winter. Even at two bits a head. . . . Tommy Warner eat caviar and drank champagne at the Hayes Wheel hockey banquet in St. Catharines last Thursday night and covered himself with glory and confetti with an after-dinner speech that sent the boys home groggy. . . . Elora Rocks that have come from nowhere this year to land in the Intermediate "B" finals, have a throwback to Grimsby. This team was built up to its present championship state with the help of "Gas" Silver, now a Grimsby resident, over a three year period that he spent in Elora. . . . Remember what I am telling you. Beamsville will have a Junior O.H.A. team in the running next year. Old Pep Sheppard, that guy who never knows when to stop, will be at the head of the works. And that means somethin'. Do a little cogitating on that one Ernie. . . . Of course they will play their games in Marr's hacienda, but the names on the sweaters will be Beamsville Peps.

THE GRAND NATIONAL Local race horse punters were all agog last week over the running, in England, of the greatest of all horse races, The Grand National. A lot of the boys had Sweepstake tickets, but not one landed in the money. Even those who did not have a little bit on the line were talking and sleeping the race. Few if any of them know the history of the race and for that matter have not the remotest idea about it, except that it is supposed to be the greatest horse race in the world, which it is.

Last Friday's race was the 102nd running of this Aintree classic and about a quarter of a million people tried to see it and it is estimated that at least ten million wagered 30 millions dollars on the result in one form or another. It is a steep chase race and a most dangerous one, yet amateur riders pay $1,000 for the privilege of riding in it. It is four and a half miles long and has 30 hazardous obstacles including the famous water jump that is just on the other side of a hurdle and is 16 feet wide. It is at this jump that most of the entrants come to grief.

In 1835 a Liverpool publican named William Lynn, proprietor of the Waterloo hotel, conceived the idea of organizing a steeplechase near his Aintree hostelry in order to increase his trade. The first race in 1836 was such a success that the big-moneyed gents and the aristocracy got interested, and in 1837 the first Grand National was run at the same place, with Viscount Molyneux as umpire.

The notice for the race ran: "A sweepstakes of 10 sovereigns each with 100 sovereigns added by the town of Liverpool for horses of all denominations. Four years old, 11 stone (154 pounds); five years old, 161 pounds; six years and aged, 168-pound gentlemen riders. The second horse to receive back his stake."

The first Grand National was won by a Mr. Sirdefield's chestnut gelding, The Duke, ridden by Henry Potts.

The third, in 1839, was won by the famous horse Lottery. On the day before the race the Liverpool Standard reporter wrote: "There will be such a long list of nobles present as has not hitherto dazzled the optics of our townsmen. I hear that 100 beds have already been booked at the Adelphi and Waterloo, and that hotels are likely to be as thronged as four in a bed. The muster from Ireland will be prodigious."

But the reporter didn't describe the race, though he was assigned to it. The Standard had to announce sadly that as its own report had not arrived it had to borrow the details from the rival paper, the Courier. It was the Courier man who christened the race "Grand National." "I have never seen so many counts and other whiskered fellows." His vocabulary became more vivid when he described "That running and jumping from here," he said, "could jump horse though Hackney, cocktail A cocktail horse, was a creature of apparently, was Lottery was bred of low breeding, even mentioned in rom parents not the stud book."

RETIRES

Larry Aurie, veteran right winger with the Detroit Red Wings, has rounded out his last season as a player in the National Hockey League, Manager Jack Adams announced. Adams said Owner James Norris had "other plans" for Aurie, and it is thought he will be made chief scout or head of the Detroit club's farm system. Larry is the last member of the 1927 team that introduced hockey to Detroit, to retire.

BOWLING

DAVY AITON LOST

The Peach King bowlers from Grimsby, skipped by Dave Aiton, and the First Uniteds, Hamilton, led by Harry Heywood, put on a splendid show Friday night on the home green and the score margin was just a three and four count that the Hamilton bowlers got in the middle of the game. Each rink registered eleven ends. The rinks and score:

In our Interest — and Yours!

The Brewing Industry has a selfish reason for the hope that the idea of Control will supplant the idea that law can make men temperate.

For excess and abuse are as much the enemies of our industry as they are the enemies of the law.

If dependence is placed on restrictions, the experience of Prohibition will be repeated. Restrictions from the outside which refuse the individual the right to exercise his own judgment provoke resistance. Excess and abuse by the individual can be curbed only by the exercise of his judgment.

Thus the fundamental principle of Control is that the drinker, NOT the drink is the problem!

So we ask you, the majority of the citizens of this Province, to join us in making the system of Control work, by yourselves observing the law and by your example encouraging others to observe it.

You will agree with us, that, far from helping temperance, harm is done by those dry extremists whose method of approach and propaganda ignore fundamental principles of human nature.

TOWARDS SAFER DRIVING

Everyone abhors the drunken driver. He is a menace and all good citizens should help to eliminate him. BUT the Ministry of Highway figures show that 98.9% of all accidents and 97.4% of all fatalities were not classified as caused by drunken drivers.

DER FUEHRER AND HIS NEW ARMY HEAD

Love goes on just the same . . . and so does the army. When General Von Blomberg was deposed as head of the German army following his marriage to a commoner, General Von Brauchitsch was appointed to succeed him. The new commander is seen on the LEFT as he accompanied Adolf Hitler on a visit to the annual motor show. They reviewed a mobile guard of honor at the Kaiserdamm Exhibition Halls, where the show was held.

The background shows other splendid examples of the art work of Ontario school children in connection with the poster contest for the big Show to be held in Toronto March 25 to April 2.

$3,000,000 BRIDGE BEING BUILT

Late this year a new 8,000 foot international bridge, costing $3,000,000 will link Canada and United States. The new structure is the "Blue Water" bridge stretching from Sarnia, Ont., on the Canadian side to Port Huron, Mich., on the American side. It will tower 152 feet above the St. Clair river, giving ample clearance for all boats navigating the Great Lakes. The picture was taken from the Port Huron end of the new span.

ME. 2830." Andrew J. Habinek, 22, unemployed, inserted the ad because he wanted to attract attention and get a job, badly needed. It did attract attention, so much so that 76 persons called him on the telephone, offering jobs. Andrew is taking one with an advertising agency.

JOHN McCORMACK
An American citizen since 1919, John McCormack, the burly Irish singer, is being boomed by friends for the presidency of Eire, the former Irish Free State, against a Czechoslovakian count and a veteran judge. McCormack, who sang farewell to American concert audiences in March, 1937, is 53 and is a count of the Holy Roman empire.

CAN. GUIDES PRESENT SALMON TO LA GUARDIA

Guides from St. John, N.B., who are doing their stuff at the Sportsmen's Show in New York's Grand Central Palace, visited Gotham's city hall with a 24-pound salmon for Mayor La Guardia. They didn't see the fiery little mayor though and Stanley House, RIGHT, his secretary, accepted the fish on the mayor's behalf. Honey MacDonald, the only woman guide in New Brunswick and daughter of "Old Bill", LEFT, is shown presenting the salmon.

NINETEEN POUND BABY

Mrs. Mary Lawler smiles proudly as she holds her 19-pound newborn son, one of the largest ever born. The child measured 24 inches long, much to the amazement of Detroit doctors. The babe's father is John C. Lawler, unemployed automobile worker.

The Indian Congress was split over policy of whether they should wage "war" against the British for independence after hearing of the resignations of British ministers.

NIFTY HEAD-DRESS

Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton, heiress to the major portion of the Woolworth five-and-dime millions, pictured with her new coiffure just before she departed from St. Moritz, Switzerland, for a trip to India. The curl brushed high up in front and the roll at the back are said to be very becoming to the countess' blonde beauty. The Haugwitz-Reventlows plan to make their permanent home in London, the countess having renounced her U. S. citizenship.

A Name For The Baby

(By Hollis)

There are fashions in names just as there are in hairdressing and hosier, millinery and make-up.

For too many years it was the custom to give the baby a name that was better suited to a doll, a puppy or a race-horse. Worse still, we have had to stand by and see the poor innocent named after a movie actress. Happily that time is passing.

Young parents are seeking for valiant and gracious names that their children may bear with dignity all their lives. Some of the good old Bible names are returning to favor. Although we are not quite ready for the rugged austerity of Abraham, Ichabod or Zebekiah—the times in which we live not being suited to them—there are some fine Hebrew names that have never lost place. Daniel, David, James, John, Jerome, Joel, Joseph, Matthew, Samuel, Seth and Thomas we will have with us always. And Jeremy, Michael and Simon have quite a following in select circles.

One of the many things that should be considered in bestowing a name on the baby is what sort of nickname is likely to be derived from it. Some names lend themselves all too readily to a ludicrous or undignified nickname which often has a habit of sticking through life. Let us make sure that the boy has a name that will stand up against the wear and tear of the playground.

Names of Old High German origin are the birthright of the Anglo-Saxon race. They denote strength, courage, boldness. Among them we find Albert, Alfred, Alvin, Anselm, Archibald, Bertram, Charles, Conrad, Ernest, Frederick, George, Gilbert, Gregory, Harold, Henry, Herman, Hubert, Jeffrey, Lambert, Leonard, Lewis, Luther, Norman, Oswald, Ralph, Raymond, Reynold, Richard, Robert, Roderick, Roger, Roland, Walter, Wilfred, William.

Of Anglo-Saxon origin we have a few names beginning with the prefix "Ed", signifying property. Thus Edgar is a protector, Edmund a defender, Edward a guardian and Edwin a gainer, of property. Cuthbert and Herbert belong in this section too.

A NAME FOR THE BABY—TWO
We have borrowed many names from the Latin and Greek, among them Ambrose, Andrew, Anthony (the "h" is silent), Austin, Christopher, Denis, Giles, Jason, Justin, Laurence, Luke, Marcus, Mark, Martin, Miles, Nicholas, Neal, Oliver, Patrick, Paul, Peter, Philip, Rufus, Silas, Stephen, Timothy.

A few names that survive from Celtic, Gaelic and British are Arthur, Brian, Donald, Duncan, Evan, Ivan and Ian (these three last are the same as John), Griffith, Kenneth, Neil, Oscar, and Owen. Magnus is probably Norse. Francis or Frank, and Guy come to use from the French; Cyrus and Jasper from the Persian. Hugh or Hugo is Dutch, and Ingram Teutonic.

The old Church tradition that at least one of the names given a child shall be that of a saint is a good one. We can hardly go wrong if we follow this rule.

There is no better name for a girl than Mary. This name combines all the lovely and gracious qualities of womanhood. Some of its variations are Miriam, Marianne, Maria, Marie, Marion, the French form, and May.

At one time there was a spate of Jeana. Then a flood of Betties and Peggies (let us hope all these little girls are really Elizabeths and Margarets). Next followed a freshet of Shirleys and Helens. At the present time there does not seem to be any common favorite, which may mean that we are developing a little individuality. Sometimes a name drops quite out of knowledge for a generation—two and then comes back, perhaps to keep green the pleasant memory of a beloved great-aunt. It is time we heard again of Laura, Harriet, Caroline and Maud.

We should be on our guard against careless mispronunciations that grate on the ears, as Dearth, Margrut, Hellun or Evlun.

From the Old High German we have Ada or Edith, Adelaide or Ethel, Alice, Amelia (Emeline or Emily), Bertha, Charlotte or Caroline, Emma, Frederica, Gertrude, Harriet, Henrietta, and Matilda or Maud.

Many pleasing names are of Latin and Greek origin: Agatha, Agnes, Alma, Althea, Amabel (Amy or Mabel), Antonia—pronounced Anton-e-a, with accent on the "ee"; Augusta, Barbara, Beatrice, Catharine, Cecilia or Cicely, Celia, Christina, Clara with its variations of Clarice, Clarissa or Clare; Claudia, Constance, Cynthia, Della, Diana, Dora (Dorothea or Theodora), Dorcas, Eleanor or Leonora, Ella or Ellen, Elvira, Eugenia, Eunice, Florence or Flora, Georgina, Grace, Helen, Honora, or Nora, Justina, Letitia, Lucy, Lydia, Marcia, Margaret, Melicent, Miranda, Olive, Pauline, Philippa, Phoebe, Sophia, Theresa (silent "h"), Ursula. There is a brightness about this string of names that suggests a necklace of many-colored gems.

Ernestine, Frances, Mildred and Rhoda are German. Roxana, and Esther or Hester are Persian. Almira is Armenian.

Our inheritance from the Hebrew includes Ann, varied by Hannah, Anna, Anne, Annette, Annabel and Nancy; Edna Elizabeth (Eliza or Isabel), Eva and its diminutive Eveline, Joan, Joanna, Jane, Janet, Jean and Jeannette—are feminine of James. Then there are Josephine, Judith, Leah, Martha, Rachel, Ruth, Sara and Susan. Some may be surprised to find Edna in this list, but the name appears in the Apocryphal Book of Tobit and is borne by the wife of one Raguel. It signifies pleasure.

None of these names are new; many are in constant circulation; others seldom heard are deserving of consideration when a name for the baby is being debated.

The best method of cleaning fabric lampshades is to brush with a soft brush until all the dust has been removed. Parchment shades can be wiped clean with a soft cloth.

The WOMAN'S LOOKOUT

By CLAIRE BURNS

WOMEN BETTER TRAVELERS THAN MEN—

Women are better travellers than men. A. A. Gardiner, Assistant General Passenger Traffic Manager of the Canadian National Railways, told a women's club in Montreal. They know their own minds. While men wonder where to go, women know and start marketing. They like bargain excursions. When it comes to family vacations, they make the decision in 75 to 80 per cent. of the cases.

"They are not so hard to please," Mr. Gardiner said gratefully. "They are more interested in what goes on around them, therefore, they get more out of travel. They know exactly what they want and, knowing the difficulty of service, they more fully appreciate what is done for them."

With a greater appreciation of beauty and the fact that they are happiest only when surrounded by beauty and place a high value on cleanliness, women much more than men, he said, help the railways make their service attractive.

"Generally, the ladies show their better travel sense in nothing more strikingly than in their baggage. Even a complete wardrobe is light, compact and easily carried. Small overnight bags, as against the huge and cumbersome impedimenta men carry, evidence the good judgment of the ladies."

As a class, women school teachers are the railways' best patrons, Mr. Gardiner pointed out, with nurses a good second.

Women leave things on trains, just as men do, he said, but not so many, although women travellers are in the majority. They seldom forget their compacts, though.

REVISED BRIDGE RULES ? ?

- 1 Pick up your cards as dealt so you can be ready to bid ahead of the other ladies.
- 2 When your hand is poor, mention it as it will guide partner in bid and play.
- 3 If partner bids first, do not hesitate. Make a jump raise. He has to play it.
- 4 Occasionally ask what is trump, as it shows you are interested in the game.
- 5 Wait around the table when dummy and look at other hands — it helps.
- 6 Never hurry. Try several cards on each trick until sure which one you prefer.
- 7 Help partner with suggestion. Don't show a lack of interest when dummy.
- 8 Feel free to criticize your partner and note the improvement in his playing.
- 9 If cards run poor, expose an honor and demand a square deal in Washington.
- 10 If a money game, be sure to stop when ahead. It leaves a lasting impression.
- 11 Always explain your plays, particularly when set. It shows card knowledge.
- 12 Do not try to memorize all the rules; it is too confusing.

It looks as though there's lots new under the sun. Behold the fifth suit in a new 65-card bridge deck which recently made its debut in New York from England. The title of the new suit is "Royals" and the value is between spades and no trumps. Sixteen cards are dealt to each player, the 65th card going into the "kitty" from where it may be exchanged by the declarer for a card in the dummy hand. A game of poker might be pretty involved with a deck like this—especially if it was seven card stud with deuces wild.

HOW TO MAKE COFFEE—

The secret of making good coffee is to bring the freshly boiling water in contact with the ground coffee just long enough to extract the full flavour. Prolonged cooking develops bitterness.

With this principle in mind, any of the three general methods of preparation can be used successfully, the drip method, the colander method or "boiled". While the proportion of coffee and boiling water varies with individual taste, one heaping teaspoon of freshly roasted coffee and ground coffee to one-half pint of boiling water gives an average strength. It is important to measure the water and the coffee carefully to be sure of good results.

Drip coffee has a deliciously smooth rich flavour. Various kinds of coffee pots for the making of drip coffee are now readily available almost everywhere. These pots have two compartments, one available for the upper one holds the ground coffee, on to which above the other. The upper one holds the drip through to the compartment below. In some cases a sheet of filter paper is used under the ground coffee to retard the speed with which the water goes through. When coffee is to be served, the water is poured into the compartment below, the upper compartment is removed and the coffee is ready to serve.

Many people, however, prefer percolated coffee. Again the water should be freshly boiling. The percolating should begin at once, and be allowed to continue slowly from five to ten minutes according to the strength desired. The basket containing the coffee grounds should be removed immediately as they absorb flavor and aroma.

"Boiled coffee" made in the old fashioned coffee pot can be equally delicious and satisfying. The boiling water is poured onto the ground coffee. It is then brought to the boiling point, stirred down once and allowed to stand without boiling from eight to ten minutes. It should be strained from the grounds immediately into a warmed china or enamel pot and it is ready to serve. To make boiled coffee very clear, a small amount of slightly beaten white of egg may be mixed with the ground coffee before adding the boiling water, or it may be tied loosely in cheesecloth.

What a nuisance it is, when knitting a sleeve, to have to go back to the beginning and count the decreases now and then. Try putting a snap fastener through every decrease row as you knit it, then the number of decreases can be seen at a glance. The snaps can be removed and used again and again as the work proceeds.

Blouses Will Be In Demand—And Charming Blouses There Are!

Every suit calls for a blouse—or several blouses. The more the merrier for the average woman, for she feels she can vary her costume better by changing her blouse than in almost any other way.

Very sheer blouses were in demand last summer and will be this year as soon as the weather grows warm. In fact, they are already being worn in the warmer parts of the North American continent, and were much in evidence in the south.

The blouse shown here is a particularly charming one for Easter, as its petal jabot and floral pattern remind one of that flowery season. The material is a washable transparent Swiss organdie with a subtle floral shadow print. The petal jabot flares widely on each side of the front closing of this crisp spring blouse. Fine Valenciennes lace edges the jabot, collar and short, puffed sleeves.

Something New

Oh, oh, something new and original in blouses—in colors to match your eyes! It originated with Mme. Agnes, and the colors are in green, violet, brown, gray and blue. These blouses are also in crisp sheers, with duffy bow-tied neckline, much as the one shown here.

Obituary

Miss Elizabeth Greig

The sad death occurred on Tuesday morning of Miss Elizabeth Greig, daughter of the late Alexander and Margaret Greig, and a resident of the town for the past 20 years. She was born at Cornwall, Ontario.

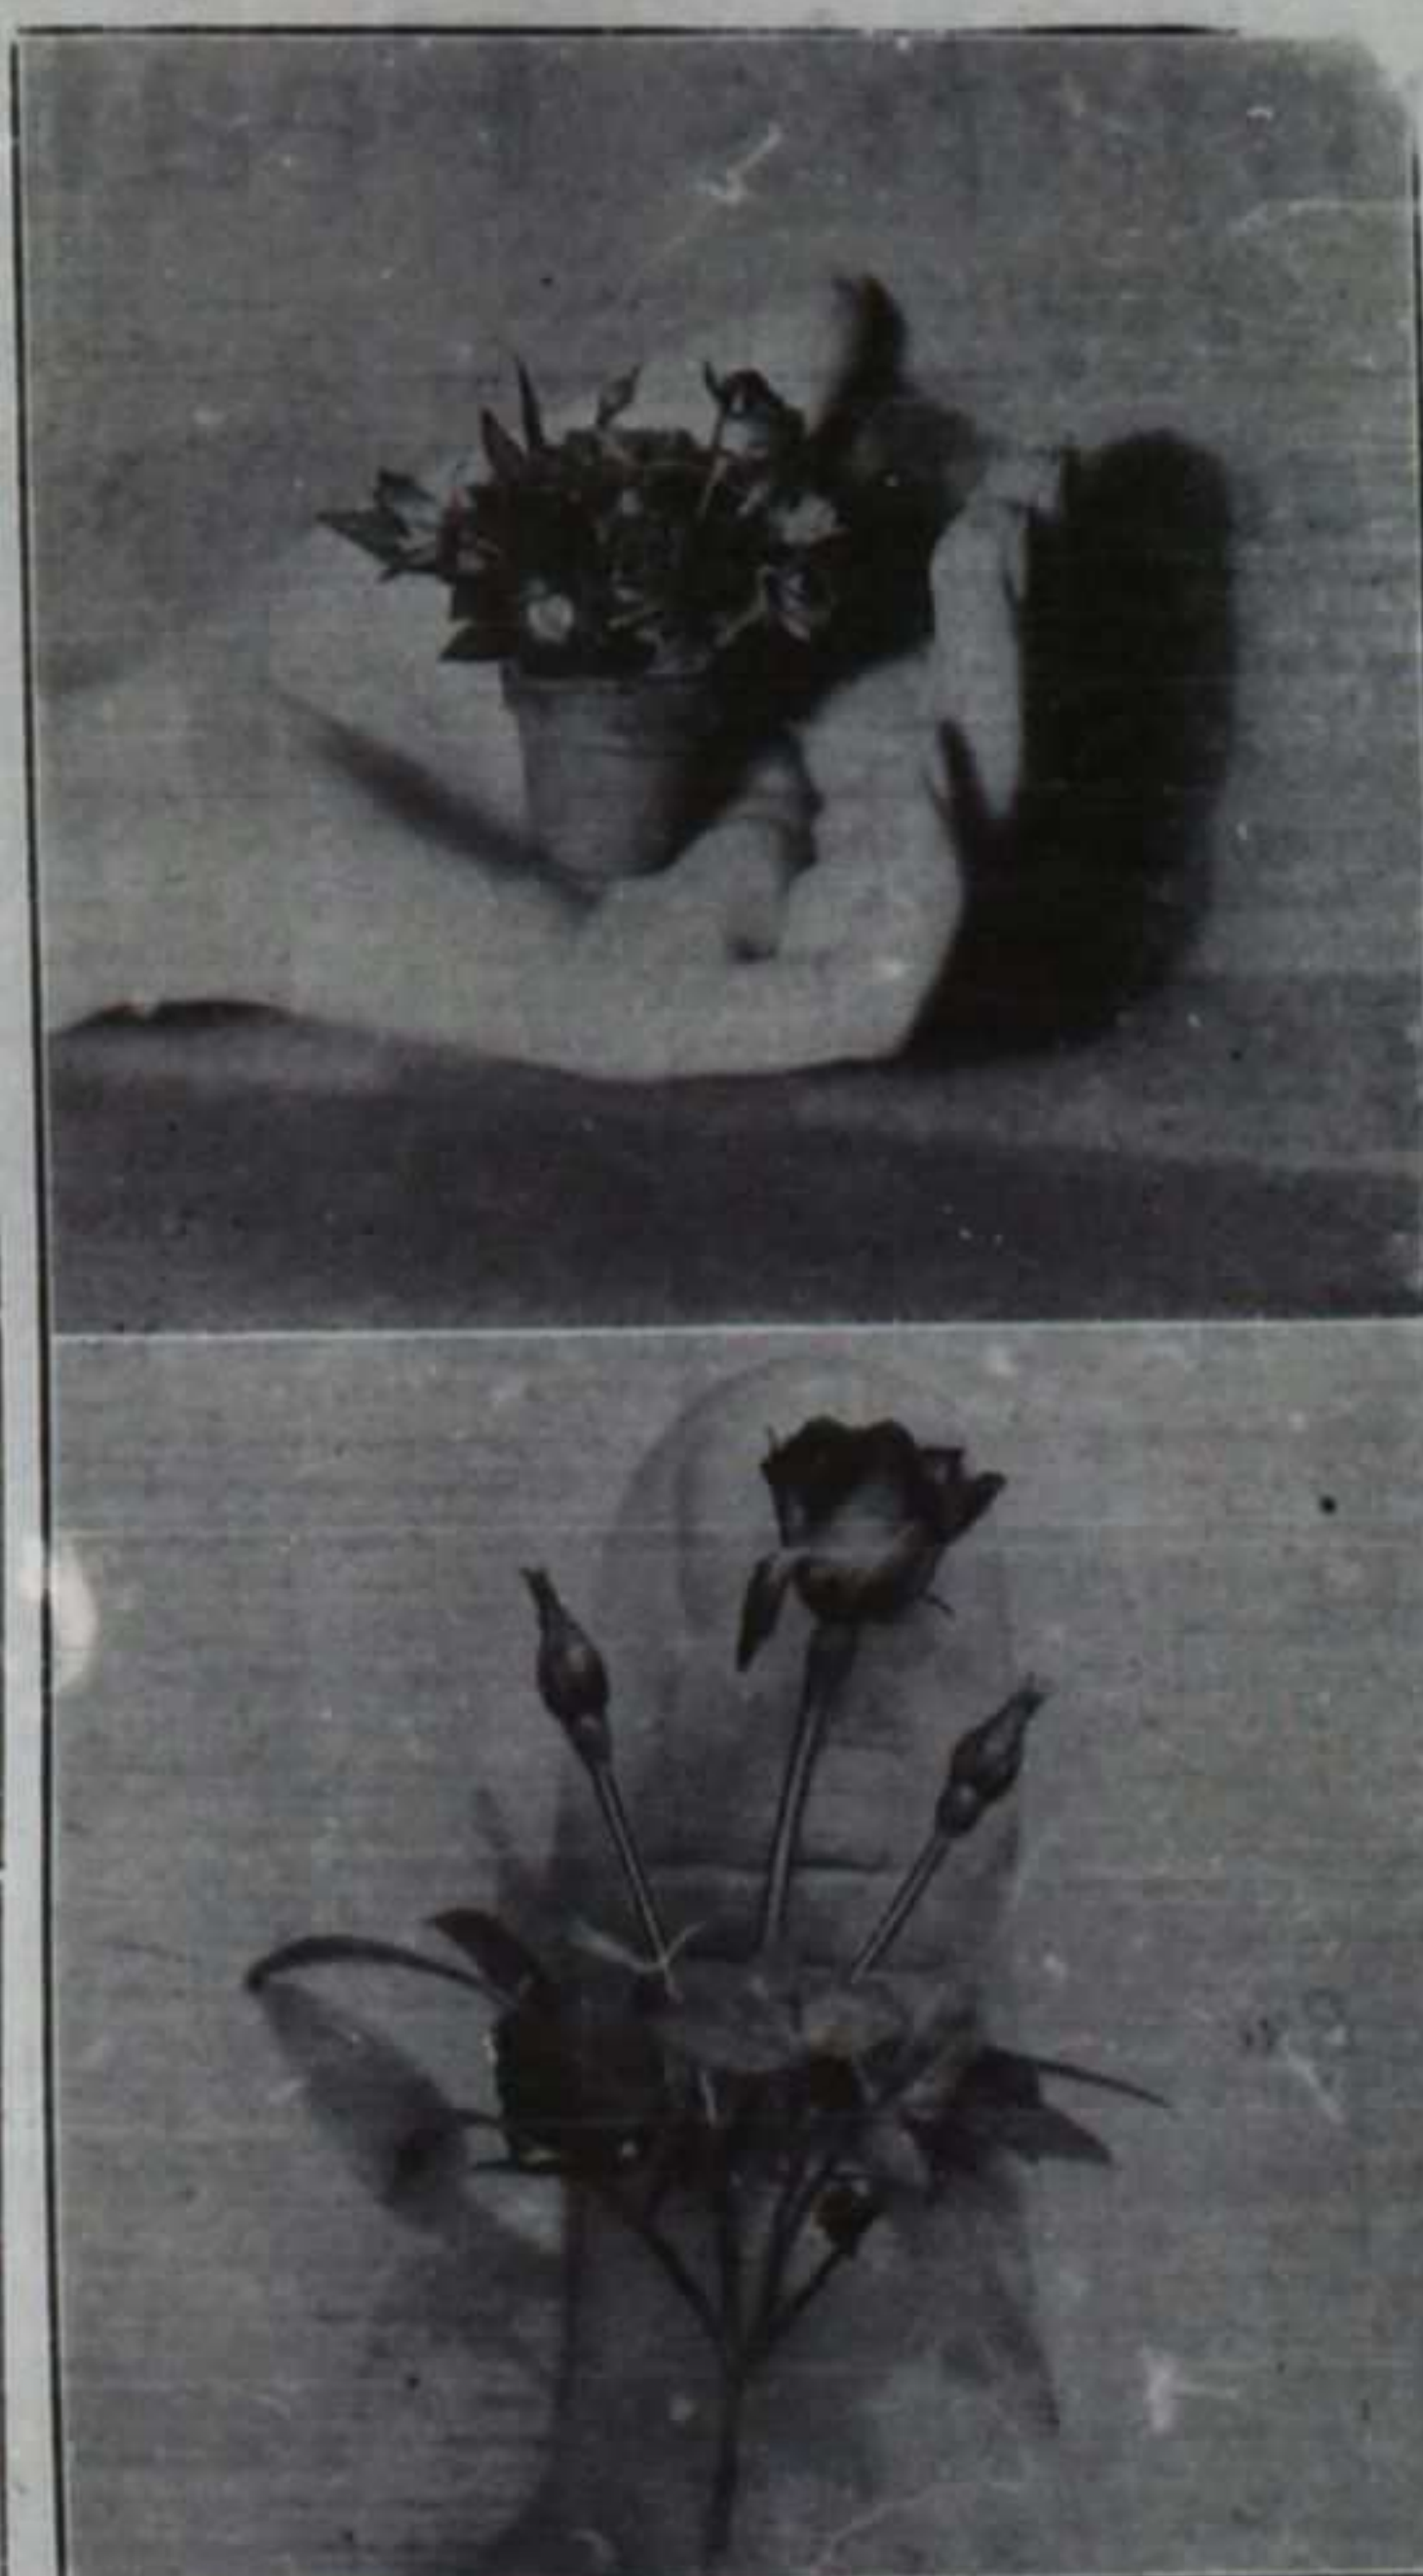

The deceased lady, who had been a valued employee in the local office of the Ontario Department of Highways for the past 14 years, was held in high regard by a large circle of friends and her sudden illness three weeks ago, from which she failed to rally, was learned with deep regret. She was a member of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Grimsby, and of Alexina Rebekah Lodge, No. 267.

Left to mourn her passing are two sisters, Mrs. Norman Walker, Middleport, Ontario, Mrs. T. W. McCullough, Woodstock, and one brother, James F. of Hespeler, Ontario.

The funeral service will take place from the home of her niece, Mrs. Kenneth Baxter, 22 Nelles Boulevard, on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. I. B. Kaine of St. John's Church officiating. Interment will be made in the Preston cemetery.

The pallbearers are: Messrs. F. C. Hanning, H. R. Dickson, W. Webster, F. James, J. Langman and W. Stewart.

Both piano and organ accompaniments were used to effect, and during a brief intermission the piano-organ duo "On Wings of Song" proved a musical treat. Following the recital the choir and their friends were entertained by the Young People's Union.

Voids Legacy As Being Too Remote

Will Made by Gainsboro Resident 54 Years Ago is Interpreted — Decision Handed Down By Justice Middleton.

Mr. Justice Middleton at Osgoode Hall on Tuesday delivered a judgment interpreting a will made 54 years ago. It was that of Mrs. Phoebe E. Pew, who died on June 24, 1884.

By her will she left her husband, Anson Pew, lands on the sixth concession in Gainsboro township, Lincoln county, to hold during his natural life. After that they were to go to her daughter, Maria A. S. Warrender, to be held by her during her lifetime and, in the event of her leaving no heirs, they were to become the property of children of her uncle Solomon Secord. The residue, says his lordship, went to Mrs. S. Warrender. The latter died in 1937, leaving her estate to her son.

Mr. Justice Middleton said Solomon Secord left numerous descendants, some known and others unknown. He finds the bequest to Maria A. S. Warrender was not a life interest but a gift in fee simple. The executory devise to Solomon Secord, he says, is void as too remote.

Some men's idea of "lact" is to dry a woman's tears by telling her that her nose is getting red.

Acts 10:34—"God is no respecter of persons."

Serving Other Races

PREVIEW OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 3, is Mark 7:24-37, the Golden Text being Acts 10:34, "God is no respecter of persons.")

"IN CHRIST there is no east nor west, in him no south nor north; but one great fellowship of love throughout the whole wide earth." Paul expresses this same thought of Christ as unifier of all races, by saying, "There can be neither Jew nor Greek, there can be neither bond nor free, there can be no male or female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus."

Christ and a Foreigner

Tired of the bickering of his critics about such insignificant matters as how to wash hands, Jesus felt the need of getting away. So, he made one of the longest trips of his whole earthly life, an excursion into the gentle country of Phoenicia, the borders of Tyre and Sidon. Here a gentle woman, whose little daughter was grievously afflicted, came and besought his help in behalf of her child. Mother love ignores geographic and racial lines. She was a Syrophenician Greek and Jesus a Jew, but her prayer leaped over the racial barriers between them, as she besought his help for the child of her love.

A Battle of Faith

There followed one of the most unique battles of history, a battle of faith between this gentle mother and the Saviour of the world. At first he manifested a strange indifference to her heart-rending appeal, as "he answered her not a word." When he did break the silence, it was with an apparently sectarian remark that seems strangely foreign to the lips of Christ, unless we realize that his gracious purpose in uttering it was to draw out and test this mother's faith: "I am not sent unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Equal to the test, she came and worshipped him, and, although she was not of that house of Israel, yet she prayed to him, "Lord help me." Then came this still stranger and sterner remark, "Let the children first be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to the dogs." The word Jesus used here was really "doggies" and herein she saw her chance. She would not ask to sit at the first table with the children of the family, she would not even expect to share their bread; she would ask only the crumbs the children would leave. She was even happy over the privilege of the status of the "doggies" in the household of such a Lord and Master. So she prayed, "Yea Lord: even the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs." This humble faith was her victory. And Jesus gladly gave her the blessing he was only waiting the development of her faith to bestow, as he replied, "O woman, great is thy faith; be it unto thee even as thou wilt." And her daughter was healed from that hour.

All Things Well

From Phoenicia Christ swept in a wide circle back to Galilee through the borders of "the 10 cities" or Decapolis, keeping in foreign parts as long as possible. Here he healed a deaf mute, using as his unique means of grace his own spitte with which he touched the man's ears and tongue, crying, "Ephatha," that is, "Be opened." And the people spread the report which so aptly describes his entire ministry to all races and conditions of men, "He hath done all things well."

BUILD NEW CHURCH

James H. Haffa, Toronto architect, has been retained by Archbishop J. C. McGuigan, of the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation of the Diocese of Toronto, to prepare plans for a church building to be erected at Vineland; it was learned last week.

It is expected that when completed the church will serve the Catholic residents of Beamsville, Jordan, and Vineland districts who now attend the parishes of Grimsby and St. Catharines.

The size, type of construction, or estimated cost of the proposed church is not known at present.

The Invisible Ear Drum invented by A. O. Leonard, a son of the late Rev. A. B. Leonard, D.D., for many years secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, for his own relief from extreme deafness and head noises, has so greatly improved his hearing that he can join in any ordinary conversation, go to church and the theatre and hear without difficulty. Inexpensive and has proven a blessing to many people. Write for booklet to A. O. Leonard, Inc., Suite 150, Canada Cement Building, Montreal.

CUT WITH SHARP TOOL

How to divide delphiniums

DELPHINIUM CLUMPS MAY BE DIVIDED

OLD CLUMPS of delphiniums that look stunted in the centre should be dug up and divided into three or more plants. Old clumps, if not divided, have such large masses of roots that it becomes difficult for them to function as they should, with the result that the plant suffers.

Dividing of delphiniums is not merely to obtain more plants, but to have smaller plants which will be more vigorous and therefore will produce more blooms.

Early in the spring, when the new shoots appear on an old delphinium plant, dig up the clump. Then wash away the soil from the roots in order to see clearly where the divisions should be made. Each division should have plenty of roots and one or more shoots. Use a sharp tool to make the cuts, as shown in the Garden-Graph.

Do not place the divided plants back into the same hole from which the original clump was taken unless you work the soil well and add a generous dose of plant food.

ed into the pasteurizer to be pasteurized as soon as possible. When 75 degrees F. is reached the cream is then tested for acidity with a special apparatus known as an acidimeter. Once knowing the amount of acid present a diluted neutralizer is used. After neutralization the temperature of the cream is gradually raised to a temperature of 170 degrees and held at this point for at least 10 minutes. Cooling down of the cream is then done as quickly as possible and the cream held for at least two hours after cooling before the commencement of churning. No cream that tests less than 30 to 33 per cent. butter fat is used.

The cream is then placed in a large, motor-driven round churn and it takes from 25 to 30 minutes to be turned into butter. On the day The Independent "made butter" 900 pounds of cream was put in the churn and 300 pounds of butter and 600 pounds of buttermilk taken out. 300 pounds of butter is a lot of butter and makes a very sizable mountain when all in one pile.

Before the butter is taken from the churn the required amount of salt is sprinkled over the "pulp" and a special agitator mixes it into the "pulp" as the churn revolves. Previous to the adding of the salt the "pulp" is cooled for some considerable time by cold water running in to the churn.

When the now finished butter is taken from the churn it is tested for moisture with another special piece of mechanism. No granular butter should contain more than 15 per cent. moisture and it takes a lot of skill on the part of a butter maker to keep his moisture content down to that point. The independent batch of butter tested 15.2 per cent. moisture.

The butter is now placed in square, wooden boxes and packed solid under heavy pressure and when taken from the boxes are in 90 pound moulds. These moulds are then placed on a table and are cut two ways by hand operated "cutters", which are simply small sized steel frames with criss-crossed fine piano wires, and the result is one pound prints of butter, which are wrapped in waxed paper ready for delivery to the public, said wrappers being printed in gaudily colored inks "Peachland Butter—Made in Grimsby, The Home of the Peach", by Grimsby Dairy.

That is all The Independent knows about making butter, except that all machinery, tools, containers, and the butter room itself is as clean and sanitary as it is possible for them to be. A visit to Grimsby Dairy on a Wednesday afternoon when butter making is in process would be worth the while of any housewife, because seeing is believing and believing is satisfaction, and a satisfied housewife is the greatest thing under the Sun.

Ontario apple orchards need more potash. Recent surveys have shown alarmingly low levels of potash in many orchards.

Potash is the element that imparts color, flavor and keeping quality to fruit of all kinds. High quality fruit brings premium prices on any market.

Applications of nitrogen alone will sooner or later result in poor textured, low quality fruit.

The Ontario Fertilizer Board recommends 4-8-10 additional nitrogen as required by the condition of the tree.

If potash deficiency is severe, applications of potash salts in addition may be required.

If in doubt as to fertility levels in your orchard, have your soil tested by your nearest Experiment Station or Agricultural College.

Write us for helpful information regarding the proven effectiveness of potash in fruit culture.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Mark 7:24-37.

Jesus was heckled by the religious leaders who followed him to quibble over such matters as the washing of hands. To get away from it all Jesus went up into Phoenicia.

Here a Syrophenician mother begged him to heal her little daughter. At first Jesus did not answer. Then he seemed strangely sectarian as he spoke of his duty to his own people rather than to foreigners.

After testing the woman's faith Jesus commended her, saying, "O woman, great is thy faith, be it unto thee even as thou wilt," and the little girl was healed by him at that very moment.

Returning to his own country, Jesus healed a deaf mute by touching his tongue and ears with spitte and saying, "Be opened," and the amazed multitudes said, "He hath done all things well." (GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 10:34.)

SPORTLAND SPORTLIGHT IF IT'S A BOQUET OR A BRICKBAT THAT'S COMING TO YOU — YOU'LL GET IT

By J. ORLON "BONES" LIVINGSTON, Independent Sportologist

RANDOM RANTS AND RUMORS Cincinnati Reds, National league ball team, consume 18 full grown steers in the form of steaks, every spring in training camp. That's nuthin'. Grimsby ball fans consume 118 bum steers every season over the Peach Kings winning a championship. . . . Niagara Falls fans are agitating for the Cataracts executive to lay plans for a Senior "A" team next season. To do so would mean the importation of at least four top-notch stick welders to bolster up their already smart "B" team players. That would be easy for Tommy Boyd if he made up his mind to do it. Hockey was at a low ebb in the Big Roar town when Tommy entered his Cats in the Senior B division but it came back with a bang before the season was ended. Falls should be ripe for an "A" team next winter. . . . Popularity of professional hockey continues to increase in Toronto. Total paid attendance for the Maple Leafs' twenty-four home games of the present season was 282,211, with a sellout assured for every playoff game. That 282,211 total figures out at an average of 11,754 per home game. Here's how the figures compare with the previous two years: 1935-36, 227,708; 1936-37, 262,511; 1937-38, 282,211. . . . George Marr would go into a paroxysm of delight if he could just get one-tenth the number of any of the above figures crammed into his igloo in one winter. Even at two bits a head. . . . Tommy Warner eat caviar and drank champagne at the Hayes Wheel hockey banquet in St. Catharines last Thursday night and covered himself with glory and confetti with an after-dinner speech that sent the boys home groggy. . . . Elora Rocks that have come from nowhere this year to land in the Intermediate "B" finals, have a throwback to Grimsby. This team was built up to its present championship state with the help of "Gas" Silver, now a Grimsby resident, over a three year period that he spent in Elora. . . . Remember what I am telling you. Beamsville will have a Junior O.H.A. team in the running that guy who never knows when to stop, will be at the head of the works. And that means somethin'. Do a little cogitating on that one Ernie. . . . Of course they will play their games in Marr's hacienda, but the names on the sweaters will be Beamsville Peps.

THE GRAND NATIONAL Local race horse punters were all agog last week over the running, in England, of the greatest of all horse races, The Grand National. A lot of the boys had Sweepstake tickets, but not one landed in the money. Even those who did not have a little bit on the line were talking and sleeping the race. Few if any of them know the history of the race and for that matter have not the remotest idea about it, except that it is supposed to be the greatest horse race in the world, which it is.

Last Friday's race was the 102nd running of this Aintree classic and about a quarter of a million people tried to see it and it is estimated that at least ten million wagered 30 millions dollars on the result in one form or another. It is a steep chare race and a most dangerous one, yet amateur riders pay $1,000 for the privilege of riding in it. It is four and a half miles long and has 30 hazardous obstacles including the famous water jump that is just on the other side of a hurdle and is 16 feet wide. It is at this jump that most of the entrants come to grief.

In 1835 a Liverpool publican named William Lynn, proprietor of the Waterloo hotel, conceived the idea of organizing a steeplechase near his Aintree hostelry in order to increase his trade. The first race in 1836 was such a success that the big-moneyed gents and the aristocracy got interested, and in 1837 the first Grand National was run at the same place, with Viscount Molyneux as umpire.

The notice for the race ran: "A sweepstake of 10 sovereigns each with 100 sovereigns added by the town of Liverpool for horses of all denominations. Four years old, 11 stone (154 pounds); five years old, 161 pounds; six years and aged, 168 - pound gentlemen riders. The second horse to receive back his stake."

The first Grand National was won by a Mr. Sirdefield's chestnut gelding, The Duke, ridden by Henry Potts.

The third, in 1839, was won by the famous horse Lottery. On the day before the race the Liverpool Standard reporter wrote: "There will be such a long list of nobles present as has not hitherto dazzled the optics of our townsmen. I hear that 100 beds have already been booked at the Adelphi and Waterloo, and that hotels are likely to be as thronged as four in a bed. The master from Ireland will be prodigious."

But the reporter didn't describe the race, though he was assigned to it. The Standard had to announce sadly that as its own report had not arrived it had to borrow the details from the rival paper, the Courier. It was the Courier man who christened the race "Grand National." "I have never seen so many counts and other whiskered ones." His vocabulary became even more vivid when he described Lottery's running and jumping. "That horse," he said, "could jump from hell to Hackney, cocktail horse though he is."

A cocktail horse, apparently, was was a creature of low breeding. Lottery was bred from parents not even mentioned in the stud book.

RETIREES

Larry Aurie, veteran right winger with the Detroit Red Wings, has rounded out his last season as a player in the National Hockey League, Manager Jack Adams announced. Adams said Owner James Norris had "other plans" for Aurie, and it is thought he will be made chief scout or head of the Detroit club's farm system. Larry is the last member of the 1927 team that introduced hockey to Detroit, to retire.

DAVY AITON LOST

The Peach King bowlers from Grimsby, skipped by Dave Aiton, and the First Uniteds, Hamilton, led by Harry Heywood, put on a splendid show Friday night on the home green and the score margin was just a three and four count that the Hamilton bowlers got in the middle of the game. Each rink registered eleven ends. The rinks and score:

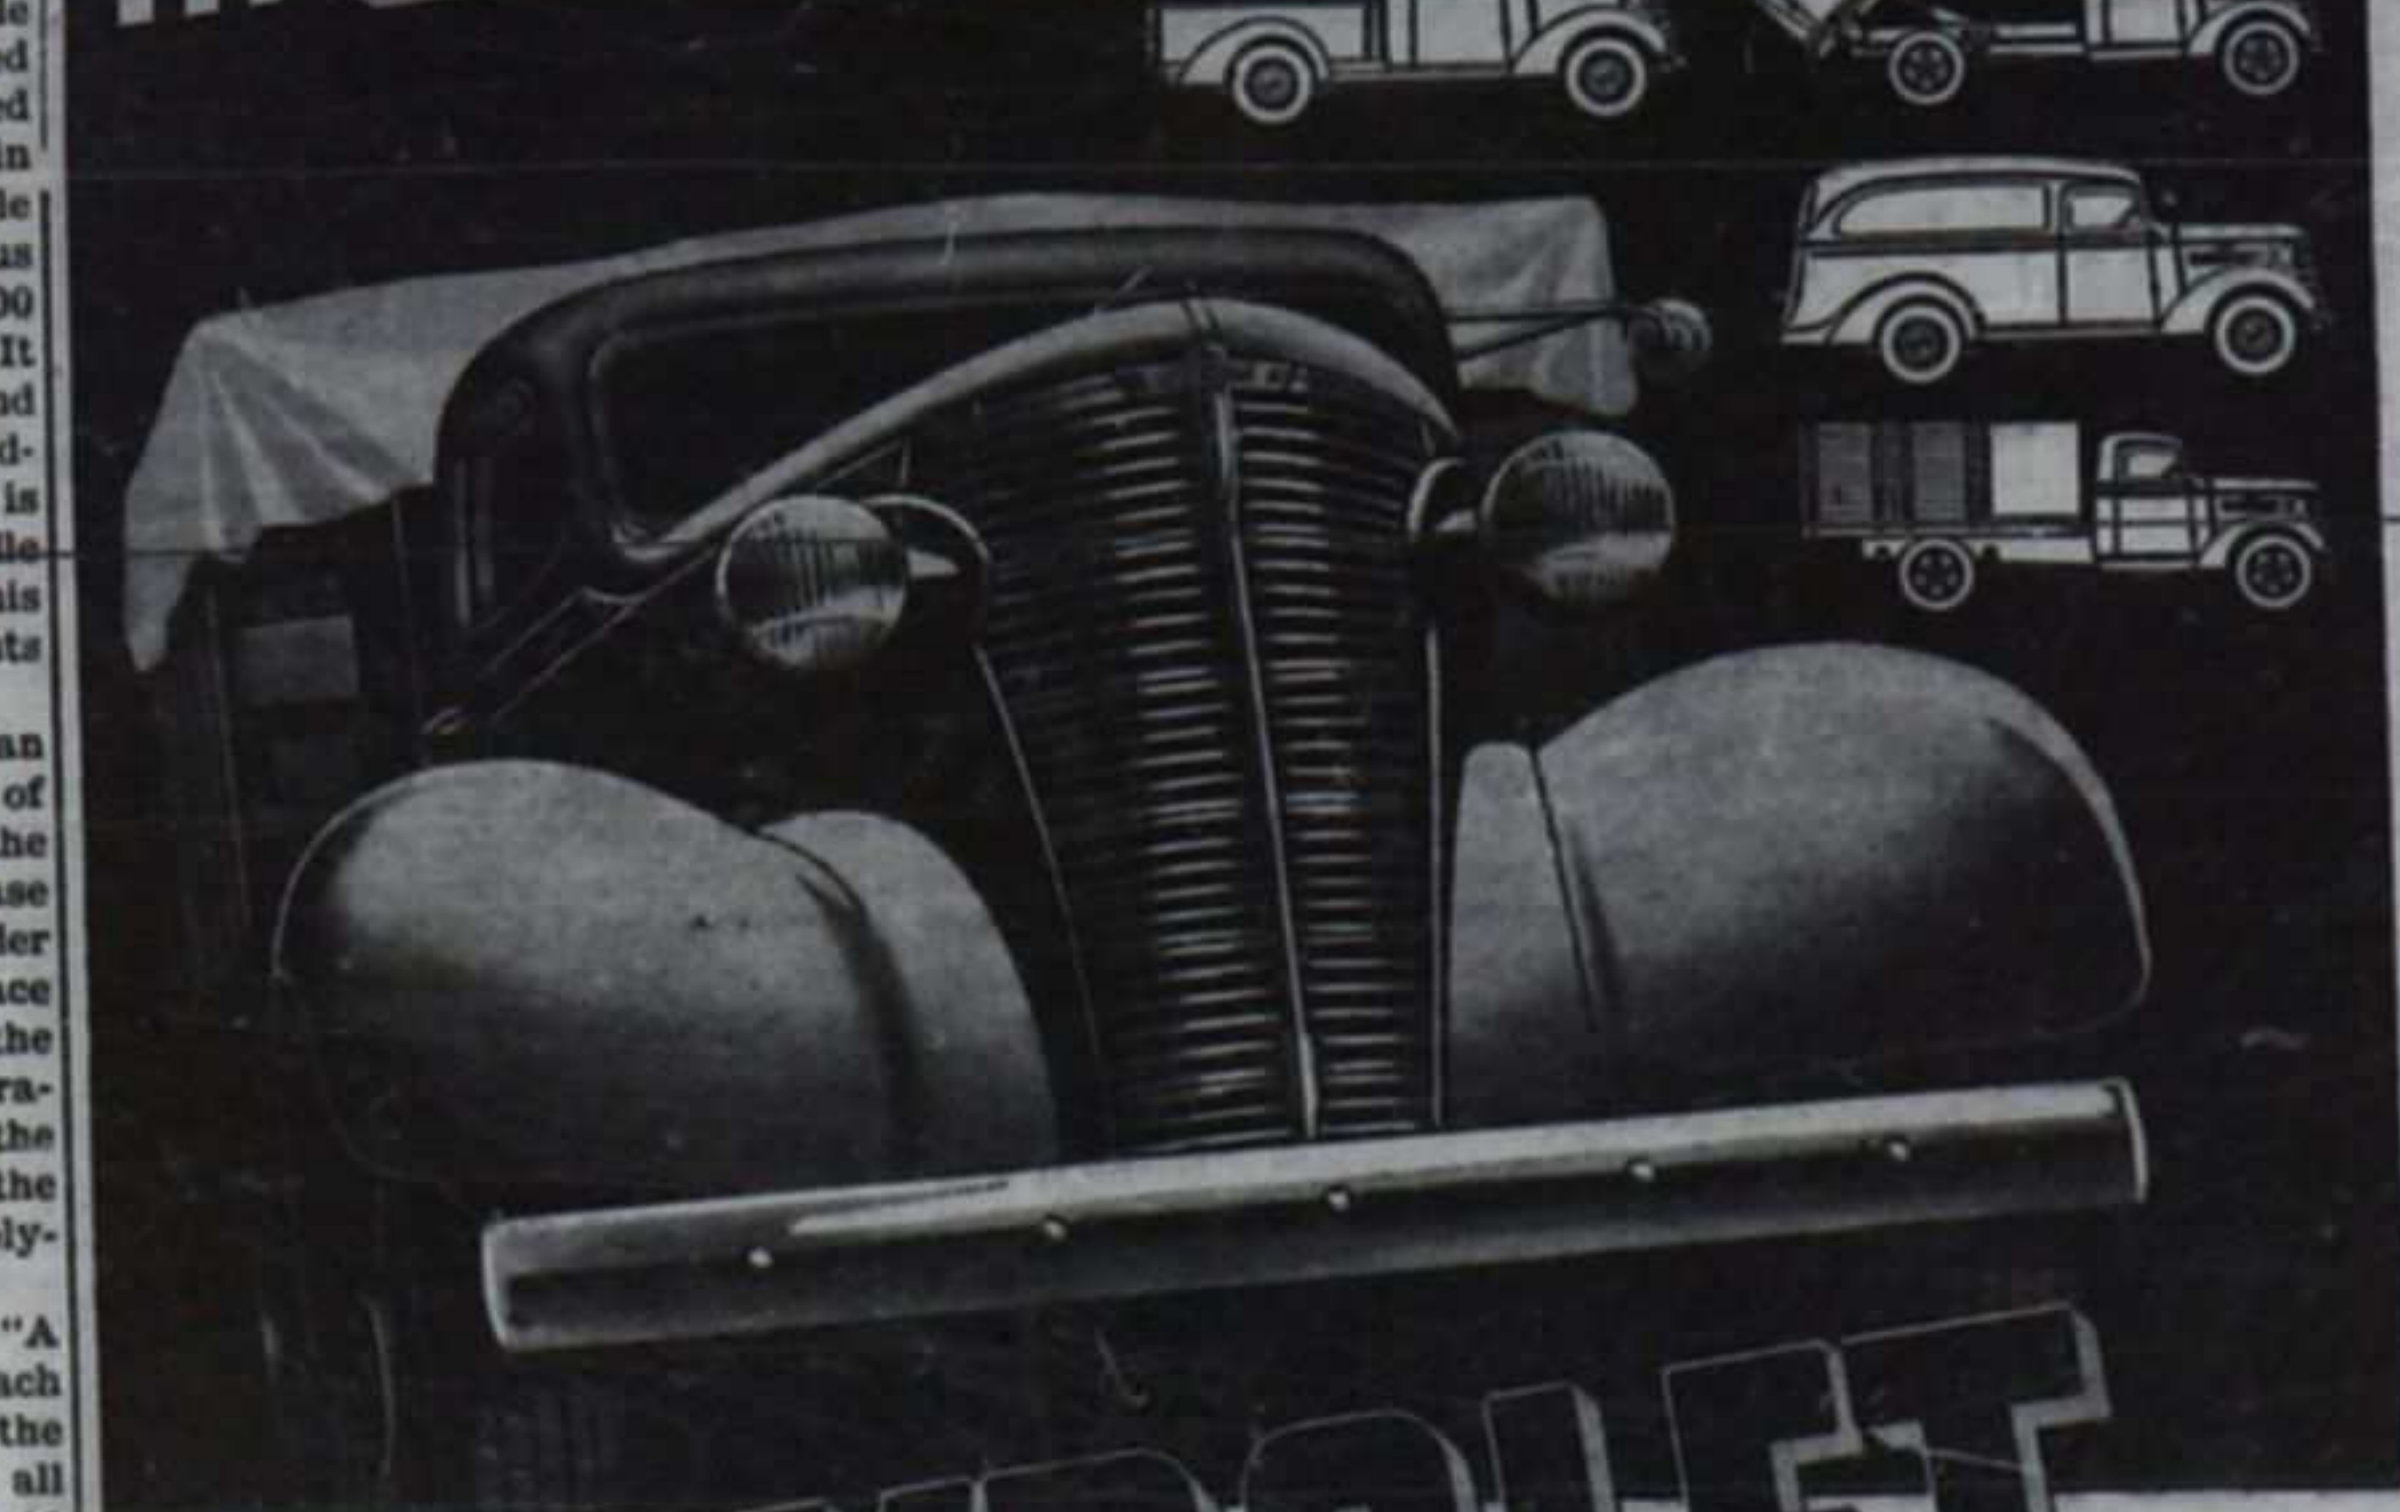

First United	Grimsby

W. Fernhough	H. Culp
S. Carlisle	M. Lawson

In our Interest — and Yours!

The Brewing Industry has a selfish reason for the hope that the idea of Control will supplant the idea that law can make men temperate.

For excess and abuse are as much the enemies of our industry as they are the enemies of the law.

If dependence is placed on restrictions, the experience of Prohibition will be repeated. Restrictions from the outside which refuse the individual the right to exercise his own judgment provoke resistance. Excess and abuse by the individual can be curbed only by the exercise of his judgment.

Thus the fundamental principle of Control is that the drinker, NOT the drink is the problem!

So we ask you, the majority of the citizens of this Province, to join us in making the system of Control work, by yourselves observing the law and by your example encouraging others to observe it.

You will agree with us, that, far from helping temperance, harm is done by those dry extremists whose method of approach and propaganda ignore fundamental principles of human nature.

TOWARDS SAFER DRIVING

Everyone abhors the drunken driver. He is a menace and all good citizens should help to eliminate him. BUT the Ministry of Highway figures show that 98.9% of all accidents and 97.4% of all fatalities were not classified as caused by drunken drivers.

● This advertisement is inserted by the Brewing Industry in the interest of a better public understanding of the problems of temperance and local option.
